Legion Head

PERRY BROWN, 56-year-old veteran of both World Wars, waves following his election as national commander of the American Legion at its annual meeting at Miami, Fla. Brown, from Beaufort, Tex., later denounced efforts to split Legionnaires into faction of each war and denied that there is strife between younger and older Legionnaires.

SIX NEUTRALS ASK BLOCK END

Action Takes Place In U. N. Meetings As Big Four Confer

PARIS, Oct. 22—The six "neutral" powers on the United Nations Security Council called on Russia today to lift the Berlin blockade at once.

The meeting was delayed nearly an hour by last minute conferences among the Big Four delegations directly concerned in the issue. The United States, Britain and France have accused Russia of endangering peace by blockading Berlin.

Russia has asserted no blockade exists and that the Council has no jurisdiction. The neutral powers—Argentina, Belgium, Canada, China, Colombia and Syria—drafted a compromise solution which the western powers accepted.

The neutrals put before the Council a joint resolution which said the four military governors of Germany should adopt the Soviet mark as Berlin's sole currency before Nov. 20 in exchange for lifting the blockade.

Suggests Meeting
The resolution also provided the Foreign Ministers Council of the U. S., Russia, Britain and France meet to seek a solution of all questions at issue over Germany.

Foreign Minister Juan A. Bragulia, of Argentina, acting Council president, presented the resolution and then addressed the delegates.

"We have reached the hour of decisions, harmonious decisions of benefit to all peoples," Bragulia said.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, deputy foreign minister of Russia, attended, but there was no indication at the start of the Soviet attitude toward the Little Six proposal.

The Little Six resolution called on the Big Four to avoid any incident which might aggravate the situation in Berlin. The Russians blockaded the land approaches to the city deep in the Soviet occupation zone last June 23, soon after the western owners introduced their reformed currency into Berlin. The west installed the air lift to feed and supply the 2,000,000 or more Germans in Western Berlin and clamped a counter blockade on the Russian zone of Germany.

Bricker Says GOP Governor With Dewey Is Vital

(By Associated Press)

Ohio Republicans fired two of their big guns at the Democrats last night.

Only one Democrat 16-incher fired back, but in Washington the White House announced that President Truman would make one more swing into Ohio. He will make a major speech in Cleveland next Tuesday on his way back to Washington from Chicago.

Both U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker, a three-time governor and a one-time presidential aspirant and vice presidential candidate, and Gov. Thomas J. Herbert made speeches for the Republicans.

Frank J. Lausche, whom Herbert ousted from the statehouse two years ago and who is trying to return, was the Democrat replying. Lausche accused the Republicans of spending public money "for political purposes and not for the purposes of the citizen and the taxpayer." He spoke before ward meetings in his and Herbert's home town of Cleveland and in Ravenna.

Bricker warned the Republicans against letting a Democratic governor be elected to work with a Republican president.

Herbert promised, at a seventh congressional district "All American" rally at Springfield, "to keep subversive elements out of your schools and out of public office in this state."

The Republican-sponsored rally, with Rep. Richard M. Nixon (R-Calif.) the principal speaker, was advertised as non-political, but seven trucks bearing banners "thanking" governor Herbert for the elimination of the sales tax on sales of less than 41 cents, bonus payments, etc., drove through the streets to the scene.

Rep. Nixon, co-author of the Mundt-Nixon bill to outlaw Communism, urged fighting Communism by teaching the theory in American schools.

"We can never defeat Communism with ignorance and half truths," he said. "If Americans were properly educated on Communism, the idealists wouldn't embrace it."

Lausche's speech, made to ward rallies in Cleveland and Ravenna, said a "political pamphlet now being used as part of the administration campaign" showed how far "politics has entered the state administration."

"The pamphlet has 68 pages and it describes in detail what the administration would have the public believe it has accomplished. It tells many things but it does not tell in any clear way how the expenditures of the state government have reached such a huge total."

"No statement of its cost, or an explanation of why it was printed at public expense for the education, not of the public, but of campaign speakers, have been given."

Lausche also criticized a $6,500 fee he said was paid to Ed D. Schorr of Cincinnati, former Republican state chairman, for "legal work in connection with the bonus." The work should have been done, he said, by the attorney general's office.

"Another evidence," he continued, "is the boast of the administration when it went into office that it was firing more than 3,500 of the employees of my administration. Their places have been filled by persons the administration wanted to favor for political purposes."

"Other evidences are the telephone connection between political party headquarters and the state government and the placing of especially favored friends of the administration in the department of agriculture."

The White House announced these Ohio stops for President Truman's campaign train on his final swing before election: Monday, Oct. 25 — Operational stops at Willard and Pistoria, enroute to Chicago.

Tuesday, Oct. 26 — Enroute east, Toledo, one-hour program, 1:30 to 2:30 p. m.; Sandusky, five minutes, 3:30 to 3:35 p. m.; Elyria, five minutes, 4:10 to 4:15 p. m.; arrive Cleveland 5 p. m., leaving at 10 p. m. after Mr. Truman's address.

Saturday, Oct. 30 — Enroute west to St. Louis, arrive Cleveland 9:30 a. m.; Bellefontaine, five minutes, 12:10 to 12:15 p. m.

Bricker, in a 24-station radio broadcast, urged the election of Thomas E. Dewey of New York, (for whom he was running mate in 1944) as President and of Herbert as governor.

"I say to you," he said, "that there must be a Republican administration in Ohio as well as in Washington if we are to enjoy the full reward of our efforts to revitalize government."

Referring to Lausche's endorsement of President Truman and his action in traveling across Ohio with him recently, Bricker added:

"I am deeply disturbed by the recently exposed alliance between the Democratic candidates for President and governor. It will profit us little in this state to put a forward-marching Republican President in Washington and a New Deal-loving governor in Ohio."

The country's basic need, Bricker declared, is teamwork in government.

19-Year-Old Clark Hill Faces Life In Prison For Murder

(By Associated Press)

MEDINA, Oct. 22—At the age of 19, Clark Hill has only a prisoner's life ahead for the sex murder of Jeanette Weimer, the pretty car hop from Mogadore, O.

His alibi—that she died accidentally from carbon monoxide fumes escaping from a broken exhaust pipe on his car—failed to convince a three-judge panel last night. Their verdict: Guilty of first degree murder by poison.

The judges, however, attached a recommendation of mercy that made a life term in prison mandatory.

Thus Hill escaped the electric chair that Prosecutor William C. Bat-chelder, Jr., had demanded.

When he heard the verdict, the ex-foundry worker's hands shook violently and he held his head until deputies led him back to his cell.

During the four-day trial, Prosecutor Bat-chelder said Hill's crime was this:

He took the 17-year-old girl out on a date April 9 and bought her a milk shake. Then when she wasn't looking he slipped a heavy dose of a sex stimulant into her drink, drove her to a lonely road and seduced her, and finally piped poisonous exhaust fumes into the automobile as she lay unconscious.

Later, he drove her corpse to the highway patrol station, claiming both of them had been overcome with carbon monoxide.

In giving the verdict, Judge Windsor E. Kellogg said the panel had found Hill innocent of a second charge, premeditated murder. A third count—murder in the attempted perpetration of rape—was dismissed two days ago.

The judges deliberated for 4 1/2 hours. When they came out there still were about 100 onlookers on hand—most of them women. Among them were the dead girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Weimer.

As the trial drew to a close yesterday afternoon, Bat-chelder attacked the defense for not placing Hill on the stand and insisted that he be sent to the electric chair.

On the defense side, Attorney Raymond D. Bennett said a 23-page confession signed by Hill was

The condition of Raymond Bricker, 7, who was injured in a farm accident Wednesday, was reported improved today at the Central Clinic.

Because of possible serious head injuries he has not been completely examined to determine the possibility of other broken bones.

The child had been riding on a farm wagon at his home on the Albany road. His father, Charles Bricker, who was on the wagon, said he thought the child got off and was in the process of getting back on when he fell beneath the wheels.

WEST VIRGINIA RACE IS VITAL

Scott Appears In Behalf Of Sen. Revercomb, Republican Incumbent

(By Associated Press)

West Virginia's hot senatorial battle drew fresh attention today as the presidential candidates sparred between their final campaign rounds.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey omitted that state from his windup tour which opens next Tuesday in Chicago. President Truman has made two campaign visits to West Virginia, putting in a special vote plea for Matthew M. Neely who seeks to unseat GOP Senator Chapman Revercomb.

Holding senate control by only a six-vote margin now, the Republicans may need to win the West Virginia race to retain the upper hand.

Dewey and Revercomb have not seen eye to eye on the displaced persons issue, but the GOP has command sent. National Party Chairman Hugh D. Scott, Jr., to Huntington last night with a special plea for the senator.

"From top to bottom," Scott said, the Republican party and the national ticket want Revercomb re-elected. "And I do mean from top to bottom," he added.

Not Time For Trip
The party chairman said there wasn't "sufficient time" on Dewey's

SHY $4,739, DRIVE WILL BE CONTINUED

Twelve Members Elected To Chest Council At Meeting Thursday

Lacking $4,739, the Salem Community Chest drive will be continued until the $35,480 goal is reached.

This was decided when team captains made their official reports last night to Chairman Curtis Vaughan and Charles Haldt at a meeting held in the Memorial building.

Reports of the nine teams which began their canvass Oct. 12 showed a total of $35,741.70 secured in cash and pledges up to yesterday.

Encouraged that the quota ultimately will be subscribed, Chairman Vaughan instructed the solicitors to again redouble their efforts.

Persons who have been missed in the city-wide canvass are requested to help make up the deficit so that the 10 participating agencies in the Chest fund can benefit from a full budget. Checks or cash should be addressed to the Salem Community Chest association, 417 E. State st.

Team No. 5 made the best report at last night's meeting, $4,614.20 being secured. Reports of the other teams showed:

Team No. 1 $563.75; No. 2 $1,241; No. 3 $2,063; No. 4 $704; No. 6 $1,987.90; No. 7 $724; No. 8 $1,215.25; No. 9 $860. Perry township, no report.

Named To Chest Council
Twelve members-at-large to the Community Chest council were elected at last night's meeting, each to serve one-year terms.

They are N. A. Pedersen, E. S. Dawson, Lloyd Gordon, Ralph Hawley, John Gonda, Alton Peterson, T. E. Miller, F. W. McKee, Ray Torrey, Harold Smith, Walter Fazio and Eugene Young.

The council will meet on Monday, Nov. 8, to elect two new directors to serve for three years. A week later the directors will meet to elect officers and a ninth director who will be assistant chairman of the 1949 campaign.

All Over But The Working

The presidential campaign is all over even to the shouting. It is unlikely that anything which hasn't happened up to this point will happen in the next 10 days to change the campaign's complexion.

The issue between Candidate Truman and Candidate Dewey has been sharpened and clarified, but it is substantially the same as it was when they began to run against each other last summer. It is the kind of administration Mr. Truman has been giving the country versus the kind of administration Mr.
Dewey would like to give the country. It is the remains of the new deal versus the revitalized Republican party headed by men who have had 16 years of experience in loyal opposition to shape their ideas about government.

The bankruptcy of Mr. Truman's political position is revealed by his increasing dependence on stars against Herbert Hoover. Mr. Truman has conducted a purely negative campaign, coming to a sad climax with the attempt to stir up the bitterness of the 1932 election.

In preparation for the probable outcome on Nov.
2 specialists who will furnish Governor Dewey with the technical information he will need if he wins the election are busy. A vast amount of work needs to be done and done quickly to overcome the growing impression that the government of the United States is losing its grip on the responsibilities it must carry.
The country never has had a federal government geared to the highest standards of modern efficiency in administration, which is what Governor Dewey would like to give it if he becomes chief executive. It will take a staggering amount of work to clean house and put things in order.

The Isolation Myth

In his non-political speech at the Herald Tribune forum Governor Dewey said the United States has learned that "there can be no isolation for America."
On the same program, Senator McGrath, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said isolation continues to be a threat—that it is the "greatest threat" to be overcome. Senator McGrath was not making a non-political speech.

Americans have learned that isolation is impossible.
But they have not learned yet that participation, if that is to be the alternative course, is by no means an absolute virtue. It too can lead to dangers and disappointments when practiced awkwardly.

One of the absurdities of public debate in recent years has been the practice of calling any person who challenged the wisdom of a given plan of international participation an isolationist. The fact is that isolation, as a national policy, always has been more myth than fact. The United States never has predicted isolation as a national policy; it has consistently participated in international affairs. Its arguments have not been between those who believed in isolation and others who believed in participation, but between those who had different ideas about participation.

Fortunately, there is still room for differences of opinion about participation. Out of them will emerge eventually a mode of living. In the meantime it would be a good idea if those who scream "isolation!" whenever their pet ideas are questioned would admit that their favorite smear word is out of date.

More Help For Greece

Hostilities in the Grannios mountains of northern Greece are far from finished. That's indicated by U. S. Ambassador Grady's statement last week in Athens and by this week's Washington dispatch which says Greek military aid must be continued another year. For the 12 months beginning last July 1, Greece is receiving about $150,000,000 in U. S. military supplies, plus participation in the ECA.

That the Communist Markos forces have re-appeared is hardly surprising. The renewal of rebel activity doesn't discredit the Greek army. It is almost impossible to wipe out guerrilla warfare in the mountains along a hostile boundary.

As for general conditions in Greece, the best Ambassador Grady could do in a carefully worded statement was to observe that it isn't "acutely worse."
Americans had hoped for a more optimistic statement, but at least they aren't being misled about the outlook.

A Few Scratches, But It Was Fun

The pictures taken from a rocket 70 miles high over the White Sands proving grounds in New Mexico now have been examined by millions of Americans. While newspaper and magazine reproductions cannot reveal all the details of the original photographs, it is noticeable that certain things must have been missing in even the originals.

We refer to things of major importance at the moment. There was no trace in the pictures, for instance, of a presidential campaign train winding its way through the countryside. Nothing that man has done any smaller than his largest airfields was visible—and these were only a few vague scratches on the earth's surface, something for inter-global scholars to ponder about at some future date when they examine the planet we live on from their cruising rocket ships.

They will have to approach the earth closely to detect the more complex evidence that it was populated by a species of go-getter—such things as dams built across river valleys, highways, cities, irrigation systems, canals and public monuments. They may wonder in their inter-global ignorance of the facts of life on earth, what kind of inhabitants did these things and whether they knew what they were doing but don't let them think we didn't have fun, because we did more fun than anybody alive at the time.

Careening Down The Road

France's coal strikes are costing the nation $3,000,000 a day, the same rate at which France is drawing

ECA funds. But beyond the coal strikes are Communist-inspired "revolving coups" systematically disrupting other production and services. Demoralization of the nation will result unless they are checked soon.

The middle-of-the-road "third force," which has been France's steady influence, has lost its effectiveness. Without Communists or De Gaulle in the government, France will continue in a state of tur-
without a threat of civil war.

With Communists in the government, De Gaulle almost certainly would resort to force to unseat them.
With De Gaulle in power, the Communists might attempt a general uprising, or they might continue the wave of strikes under which the nation has been reeling. In either event, the DeGaulleists probably would succeed in outlawing the Communists and driving them underground.

Those are the grim possibilities confronting France as the impotent Gouille government attempts to keep the nation on an even keel. France is like a speeding automobile with a steering mechanism that has just snapped. It hasn't begun yet to veer either to right or left, but when it does there will be a crackup.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

THIS day may prove memorable for searching and soul-stirring events of revolutionary importance in life, its high adventures and outstanding achievements. A sudden uprooting in which preliminary preparation and wise planning insure promotion, honors, public acclaim as well as curious personal experiences. Be ready to jump at the first bid for strange ventures and distinctive performance in fresh and romantic pastures or thrilling emotional drive.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for some curious or dynamic experiences which a whole new universe of adventure, thrills, novelty, and strange contacts may bring lightning results. This is true in business, creative research, romantic and affectional relations, in which the denouements are far beyond the range of imagination.

Honors and public acclaim, new opportunities for distinguished attainments, for distinguished attainments, may prove radical and far-reaching.
Surprising climax may top old visions of far fields and breath-taking adventure. Seek promotion in untrod fields or daring adventure.

A child born on this day is bountifully equipped for a strange but constructive career, with unique experiences and dramatic explorations, personal or scientific, even occult or mystical.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

A Disorder In Elderly Men

BY HERMAN N. HUNDESEN, M.D.
Many elderly men are subject, from time to time, to a condition known as prostatism in which the prostate gland becomes so enlarged as to block the flow of urine from the bladder.

The usual symptoms consist of frequent emptying of the bladder, straining when the bladder is emptied, and some lack of control.
Sometimes there is blood present in the urine, but this is unusual. Occasionally, it is impossible for the patient to empty the bladder at all and in some instances there may be discomfort, burning or stinging.

Physical Examination
When such symptoms are present, an examination by a physician should be made, including a study of the urine to determine if there are large numbers of white blood cells present. The prostate gland itself can be felt through the rectum. Such an examination is important in order to tell if a cancer growth is present.

The treatment for the prostatism depends upon its cause. If there is no tumor growth present, many cases can be treated without operation.

If an infection is present, it may be helpful to wash out the bladder with some antiseptic solution and to take, by mouth, some preparation which acts as a urinary antiseptic.

Definite Improvement
Massage of the prostate gland often results in definite improvement, particularly when the gland is soft. If the gland is firm and hard, massage may not be of any benefit.

If the symptoms are moderate or severe, operation is usually advisable. The specialist will decide just what type of operation should be used. One commonly employed is known as a transurethral resection.
This operation is carried out through the systoscope—a tube with a light on the end—which is inserted directly into the bladder.

After Operation
Following an operation and after the patient is at home, further treatment may be needed, such as washing out the bladder to clear up infection, and taking urinary antiseptics. Such after-care is important in order to avoid complications.

When symptoms of prostatism develop, a physician should be consulted at once, because the earlier

JESSE JONES SEES NEED FOR CHANGE

Former Cabinet Member Is Urging Election of GOP Slate On Nov. 2

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN International News Service Writer NEW YORK—Jesse H. Jones, famous Texas publisher and financier, expressed the opinion today that the Presidential term should be five or six years, instead of four—with no re-election.

"Basically, no President should be allowed to succeed himself for even one additional term," he said.

Jones, former chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and cabinet member in Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration, said of the Presidential race:

"Everyone seems to assume that Dewey will be elected. As Will Rogers used to say, 'All I know is what I read in the papers.'"

"I am taking no part in the campaign except to advocate the election of Mr. Dewey for two reasons."

"1.—I think his experience as an administrator is superior to that of President Truman.

"2.—We need a house cleaning in our overgrown bureaucracy in Washington.

"I think a new leader can accomplish that better than one who has been in."

Faper Advocates Change (The Houston, Tex., Chronicle, published by Jones, aroused nationwide interest politically last month when it came out editorially and recommended the election of Thomas E. Dewey and Earl Warren. The Chronicle asserted "it should be obvious to all thinking people that we need a change in our national administration."

I asked Jones if he believed the national administration, in power the last 16 years, had been veering away from traditional American principles—a little toward Socialism.

"Not intentionally," he commented.

Asked how he regarded business conditions in the United States, he answered:

"Good. A little too good." Explaining the "little too good" remark, Jones said prices have been too high and added:

"I think business will be good for several years but then it should taper off."

Jones said the pent-up demand for construction, public and private, should be an important factor making for continued good business in the next few years.

Disposal Of "Hot" Atoms Urgent, Secret Problem

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
NEW YORK, Oct. 22—One of the still secret projects of the U.S. Atomic Energy commission is how to get rid of waste radio-active atoms. Some facts have been published, but most of the conferences are behind closed doors.

There are no risks yet. But not much time is left. Already 16 foreign nations are using the radio-active materials sold at Oak Ridge. Six more have made arrangements. Other nations are about to begin making similar radioactive materials. Atomic power when developed will add some radioactive hazards.

The dangers will be world-wide, and it is probable that safety rules will be international.

The hazards are radioactive solids, liquids and gases getting into the air, ground or water. Even oceans are not considered safe.

There are two kinds of radioactive risks, short-lived and long-lived. The long-lived is the problem. Short-lived stuff can be stored until it dies. But some of the long-lived material may be as hazardous a century hence as it is today.

Dr. Forrest Western of the Oak Ridge national laboratory tells some possibilities of protection in a report to the Greater New York Safety Council, published in the scientific journal, Nucleonics.

Sufficient dilution, by spreading thinly in water, air or ground, would be safe. But there is no assurance that plants will not pick up hot atoms and concentrate them. Dr. Western cites an unnamed species of Algae that may concentrate them enough to emit rays which can be detected many feet away.

Clays and some minerals, he says, strongly absorb some of the radioactive elements. Some resins do the same.

At Bikini other observers said oil slicks picked up thousands of times more of the radioactive atoms than the water. Small boats became temporarily unsafe from hot atoms in marine growths on their bottoms.

One proposal is to put radioactive stuff in the solutions used for making concrete. This concrete would be made into solid blocks and sunk in an ocean. Even if the blocks broke after a century, not much radioactivity would be expected to escape. A difficulty is that some

GOP Speaker

Robert R. Bangham

Robert R. Bangham, assistant director of the Ohio Department of Public Welfare, will deliver an address at a Columbian county-wide rally sponsored by the Mid-County Republican club of Lisbon in the Lisbon High school at 8 p. m. Monday.

radioactive chemicals might prevent the concrete from setting.

Metal cans have been considered for the ocean. No tests have been published as to whether any can is yet known that will remain tight for a couple of centuries.

Another study is on mixing the dangerous atoms with non-radioactive chemical elements. This mixing would use the same element. For example, radioactive iron would be mixed with non-radioactive iron.

Once mixed, the radioactive stuff presumably never would become separated, for one of the most difficult problems of the atomic age has been to find methods of separating atoms of the same element.

This kind of dilution may not need large amounts of the safe elements. The non-radiating element may bind the dangerous material in such a way that even if plants, animals or men absorb considerable quantities, the hot atoms will not get loose.

Burial Not Good

Burial in the ground is not considered a solution because in a few years the material may spread through underground water.

Exactly how much radioactivity human beings can safely stand is not known. Tolerances are set unusually low to protect personnel working in laboratories, and results have been fairly satisfactory.

There are a few burial places in the ground, but their locations have not been disclosed, nor the reasons why these are safe. Small amounts have been dumped into running water that does not traverse populated areas. The atomic plants let a little get into the air. But all are relatively small. The problem will come when radioactive atoms and power plants are widely used.

Nature provides the greatest single safeguard against polluting the air. Neither nitrogen nor oxygen, which form 99 per cent of the gases in air, can be made radioactive for more than a very few minutes, and usually the radioactive life of these two gases is measured in seconds.

The air can still be dangerous from pollution with other radioactive gases, but if nitrogen and oxygen were like most of the other chemical elements, capable of long-lived rays, the atmosphere would offer a great risk of poisoning.

Demonstrate New Ultrafax Transmission Of Messages

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22—Ultrafax technicians gave themselves just two minutes today to copy and deliver to the Library of Congress every one of the 1,047 pages in "Gone With the Wind."

For the future, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation of America, foresaw:

Letters flashing across the country at the speed of lightning.

Military intelligence pouring as many words into the Pentagon in a single minute as wartime communications systems could handle in 24 hours.

Sarnoff made these predictions in an address prepared for the first public demonstration of Ultrafax—a new communications system that combines television, radio-relays and high speed photography.

Sarnoff termed Ultrafax "as significant a milestone in the field of communications as was the splitting of the atom in the world of energy."

Today's demonstration was arranged by the Library of Congress where a receiver was installed three miles distant from the transmission point. In addition to the two-minute dispatch of Margaret Mitchell's civil war novel, the program called for the high-speed transmission of:

An FBI description of a public enemy at large, along with fingerprints, various maps, including that of the Battle of Bunker Hill; the Declaration of Independence in Thomas Jefferson's handwriting; a page from the Gutenberg Bible, the first words ever printed; newspaper mastheads, cartoons and an advertising layout; various writings in foreign tongues and . . . a birth announcement—"In the new father's excited handwriting."

"Our Armed Services," said Sarnoff, "certainly can appreciate the value of this new system of high-speed communications."

"In the busiest days of the war, the signal center at the Pentagon building handled as many as ten million words in 24 hours.

"With Ultrafax, this load could be handled in ten minutes from one transmitter, and in one minute using ten transmitters."

Sarnoff also envisioned:

1.—Instantaneous transmission and reception of complete editions of newspapers into every home equipped with a television set and "Ultrafax" attachments. (No cost estimate was given.)

2.—A "radio-mail" system by which mail would be "broadcast" and processed by Ultrafax, and then picked up by Uncle Sam's mailmen at receiving points.

3.—The transmission of a full-length motion picture from a single negative in the production studio simultaneously to the screens of thousands of motion picture theaters throughout the country.

THE THEATER

All the flaming fury of America's Civil war era is depicted in the epic technicolor production, "Tap Roots," starring Van Heflin and Susan Hayward at the State theater Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The exciting story of the notorious Mrs. Bannister, played by Rita Hayworth, unfolds at the State Wednesday and Thursday. Also starred in this sensational film are Orson Welles, Glenn Anders and Everett Sloane.

Tyrone Power and Anne Baxter are catapulted into an unusual romance in "The Luck of the Irish," a comedy opening at the State theater Friday and continuing Saturday.

Gene Stratton Porter's youthful adventure story, "Michael O'Halloran," stars Scotty Beckett, Allene Robert and Tommy Cook at the Grand Sunday and Monday, along with the Leo Gorcey-Bowery

Bos comedy-drama, "Smuggler's Cove."

At the Grand Tuesday and Wednesday is the thriller, "Train To Alcatraz" with Donald Barry, Janet Martin and William Phillips. Also shown is the exciting melodrama, "Out of the Storm" with James Lydon and Lois Collier wondering what to do with a mysterious $100,000.

Bill Boyd (Hopalong Cassidy) appears at the Grand theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the daring western, "Sinister Journey," featured with James Oliver Curwood's adventure story, "Where the North Begins," starring Russell Hayden and Jennifer Holt.

Natives of the New Hebrides Islands bind the heads of newborn babies, causing them to slope backward. The natives consider slanted skulls a mark of beauty.

critics say are discriminatory. The West Virginians was then chairman of a senate judiciary subcommittee which pigeonholed the proposed amendments.

Dewey talked about discrimination last night in an address to a memorial dinner for the late Alfred E. Smith. He told the New York audience:

"Every human right carries with it a responsibility to use it in the interests of others and not to their injury. It means that the government which administers these rights must guide its way by a simple standard of equal justice and equal treatment for all."

By applying the "single standard," he added, "we can meet even our most difficult problems of discrimination against minority groups, of prejudice, of bigotry, of denial of certain human rights."

Truman, meanwhile, told a radio audience that the Republicans plan to put the axe to the New Deal's "great progressive body of laws."

"The time has come," he said, "for the working people and all the progressive forces of this nation to realize the grave danger that confronts them."

The President said the Republicans started their attack by converting the Wagner labor act into "an instrument for union busting by anti-labor employers." They did this, he said, by passing the Taft-Hartley act over his veto.

Health Officer Kesselmiere Busy To Safeguard Public

"We're making progress," said E. J. Kesselmiere, Salem health officer, as he told of the completion of summer projects and fall activities now in process.

The health officer, sometimes known as a "sanitary policeman," has many duties that keep him busy the year around, but this summer the primary project was to get owners of vacant lots to keep the weeds out on their property. "When we located the owners, they did it too," said Kesselmiere.

His principal duties are in connection with assuring Salem residents and visitors pure foodstuffs and sanitary places in which to eat them.

All 98 local food stores and restaurants are inspected each month for cleanliness, and Kesselmiere inspects the five local dairies twice each month so that contaminated and unclean milk will never be distributed in Salem. Another man, employed by the dairies but who reports to Kesselmiere, checks the dairies every morning in the sanitation cause.

Included in Kesselmiere's duties is making arrangements for the handling of Salem garbage. He declares that, while Salem has a better system than many nearby communities, "we are still working on a better way of handling this problem."

Kesselmiere also checks private and public plumbing to assure sanitary installation.

He makes arrangements for rabies tests whenever a local person is bitten by a dog. He points out that it is now a Salem law that all dogs, owned by local residents, must be vaccinated against rabies.

Twice each year he makes a tour of the buildings in the Salem school system and checks the sanitary plumbing as required by city and state laws.

The health officer, who has served the city in this capacity for eight years, has the authority to have people arrested if they insist in not cooperating with sanitation measures.

He said Salem citizens could assist the program greatly if they would keep the weeds down on their property and be sure that alleys near them are clean and uncluttered. He has to remind people very often that burning garbage is not only unsanitary but unlawful.

Kesselmiere expresses pride in the way restaurants and bars have cooperated in the project of being absolutely sure that all glasses are thoroughly clean. He compliments both the dishwashers and waitresses for this progress and added that special instruction in proper care of this phase of sanitation is expected to be available in Salem.

Although he is seldom in the board of health office, and estimates that he is called four or five times a day on various and sundry complaints, he hopes that the service of his office may be extended to all sanitary needs. Kesselmiere points out that all unsanitary conditions should be reported to him. His phone number is 3838.

Salem Man Makes Hobby Of Collecting Jugs; Owns 300

A small brown jug, discarded at a sale, made an appeal to J. R. Stratton of E. Eighth st., retired plumber, and gave him an idea which has developed into an unusual hobby.

That was 18 years ago. Today he has a collection of approximately 300 jugs and jars, practically all earthenware. Ranging in size up to five-gallon, they are all colors from light cream to black, with brown predominating.

One of his prizes is a quart size brown jug with a double handle, a gift from Dr. Robert Maris, Wilmington, Del., dentist, who found it in a home at Buzancy, France, near the Belgium border, during World War I.

Another is a fruit jar from Pennsylvania, more than a century old, light gray in finish, with a spray of blue cherries.

Two novelty ornate wooden jugs were sent to him from a niece in Arkansas.

Some of the others are from England, Scotland, Netherlands, West India, China and Aurora, N. Y. Mr. Stratton often can determine the origin of a jug by its finish, shape, size, color and decoration.

The older jugs have a dull finish, the high gloss finishes being a product of more modern days. Earlier jugs are smaller at the bottom and have more bulge in them.

Fascinated with his hobby, Stratton has told its story and showed his collection at local service club meetings and also to the students at the Friends Boarding school, Barnesville.

A part of his collection will be on exhibit at the third annual antique and hobby show given by the Salem Stamp and Coin club this weekend in the Memorial building.

Quads Born In England; Survival Chances Good

EDMONTON, Eng. Oct. 22.—Quadruplets—a girl and three boys—were born today to Mrs. Bessie Taylor, 28, wife of a sewing machine mechanic. Doctors said the mother's condition was satisfactory and the quads have a good chance to live.

Different colored ribbons were placed on the infants to tell them apart and they were placed in oxygen tents.

The father, Robert, said he has been promised a lease on a larger house. The Taylors have two other sons, five and seven.

Pastor Warns — His Sermons Won't Entertain

MINNEAPOLIS — One of the first things the new dean of Cathedral church of St. Mark told his parishioners was that they shouldn't expect to enjoy his preaching.

The Rev. Frederick Myers Morris comes from an early American family. An ancestor, Lewis Morris, signed the Declaration of Independence. The new dean puts a few historic ideas into his sermons.

"Preaching is meant to instruct, inspire, move and stir the will and often to accuse," the Rev. Morris says. "It is not to be enjoyed."

He says he also believes "religion that costs little is worth little."

The Lights Are On Again

CANDIA, N. H. — For the first time since Pearl Harbor, this village now has a street lamp in operation. Before the war, Candia had street lights like any other community. But gradually they burned out and were not replaced, until recently when a group of townsmen raised a fund to finance one lamp.

Double or Nothing

HARTISBURG, Ill. — Unarley Dunning set a rat trap in his hardware store and two weeks went by without any takers. Then Dunning heard a snap and found two rats in one trap. Two hours later it happened again.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON—The shock troops—the advance guard—of Russia are the Communist parties in every country.
That's why those parties must be kept in mind in any talk of working out peace with Russia. For example:
Russia can make a peace deal, stay behind a given line, sit tight, and meanwhile help and direct the Communist parties in other countries.
Then, if they succeed in taking over a country, they will accomplish just as much—without war—as an invasion by the Red army.
Those parties are tied in with the main aim of Russia—which is world Communism—and the future of Russia itself.
Communists everywhere know

this:
Even if the Communist parties in every country are wiped out tomorrow—
1. Russia, the fountainhead and stronghold of Communism, still exists and is uncrushed.
2. There's a chance, particularly with Russia's help, for Communist parties to spring up again in every country.
3. There's still a gigantic starting point for Communism to spread out from Russia and win the world.
THAT IS WHY, in part, the Communist party in this country has followed such a shifting, zig-zag line.
For example, go back to 1939 when Germany and Russia signed their non-aggression pact.
This deal between Communism and Fascism shocked many of the idealistic Communist-sympathizers in this country.

(They were the ones who forgot, or ignored, or didn't know, what Lenin meant when he said that Communists, to gain their final goal, should if necessary retreat, compromise, or lie.)
But the 1939 deal made sense to the Communists. Russia wanted to survive. It was willing to make a deal with Hitler so it could keep out of war itself and leave Hitler free to war on Britain and France.
Hitler did that, almost at once. This country began to arm then through its defense program. Meanwhile, it sent help to Britain and France.
The Communists here screamed out against the program and the help. They did what they could to ruin it with slogans and action. They shouted the "Yanks are not coming." They said the war between Germany and France and Britain was of no concern of this country.
(If those three countries knocked themselves out in the war, Russia would have been the strongest nation in Europe.)

But later, when Germany attacked Russia, the American Communists did a swift about-face and were all-out for war against Hitler.
That's just one little picture of the Communists at work within one country outside Russia, shooting the works for the benefit of Russia.
Right now you can see them at work in France and Italy, trying to weaken those countries from within by strikes and strife.
IF THE COMMUNISTS can seize power anywhere — through regular popular elections of through force and violence—it is a victory for Russia just as sure and complete as an invasion, and far cheaper. Why? Where's the proof?
Because every country which has been taken over by its own Communists has tied its fortunes immediately with Russia. And this is to be expected, since the aim of Communists is world Communism.

But in trying to make peace with Russia, the eastern governments can not ask her to repudiate the Communists; parties in countries outside Russia, or to stop all contact with them, or help, or direction.
Russia wouldn't do that. If she did, and those parties collapsed, Russia would find herself surrounded by capitalist states, without friends and allies within those states—friends who eventually, without need for war, would try to get control there.
In short, if Russia cut loose from the Communist parties outside Russia, it would have to go into isolation, give up its hope of world Communism, and content itself with Communism in one country.
It could do that, of course, but not without going contrary to all its theories of world Communism.
Yet, so long as those Communist parties remain in countries outside Russia, Russia has fifth columns working even though she makes a peace deal.

PATROLMAN PLANS MOTORBIKE TALK

High School Boys to Hear Explanation By Corp. Mallory

The Student council of Salem High school has arranged to bring Opi. Edward Mallory of the Salem state highway patrol to address all male students at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday. He will explain state laws in connection with the operation of motorized bicycles and scooters.

Principal E. G. Ludwig said that there has been much confusion brought about by the new laws inside necessary since these modes of transportation have become so popular.

Mallory will tell who is qualified to operate these vehicles and the kind of licenses required. He will also explain safety precautions in their operation.

A football pep assembly was to be held yesterday afternoon in the High school auditorium with the cheerleaders in charge.

The cheerleaders squad is now composed of three varsity, five freshmen and two reserve yell-masters.

They are: Head cheerleader, Pat Fain, Miss Snyder and Barbara Burson on the varsity squad; Joan Robusch, Judy Gregg, Jean Schicht, Dana Rice and Millie Maier in the freshmen group, and Joan Domenetti and Helen Schuler, reserves.

The cheerleaders and their coach, Miss Irene Weeks, are planning some new and unusual yells to enliven their performances.

Forty Years' Absence Changes Her Brother

LINCOLN, NEB.—Mrs. Margaret McMaster was telephoning when the stranger rang the doorbell.

"Hello, Mag," he said. "Remember me?"

Mrs. McMaster says her eyes are pretty good despite her 78 years, and she needs glasses only when she reads or sews. But she didn't recognize the man.

"It's Jim," he said, "your brother." The reunion ended a 40-year separation. She thought he was dead.

James Stewart left his Lincoln home to work at Omaha and Denver as a government meat inspector. Years passed with no letters from him, and finally came word he had died.

Stewart said he is operating an electrical business at Los Angeles. He discovered he lives only a few miles from a nephew on the west coast.

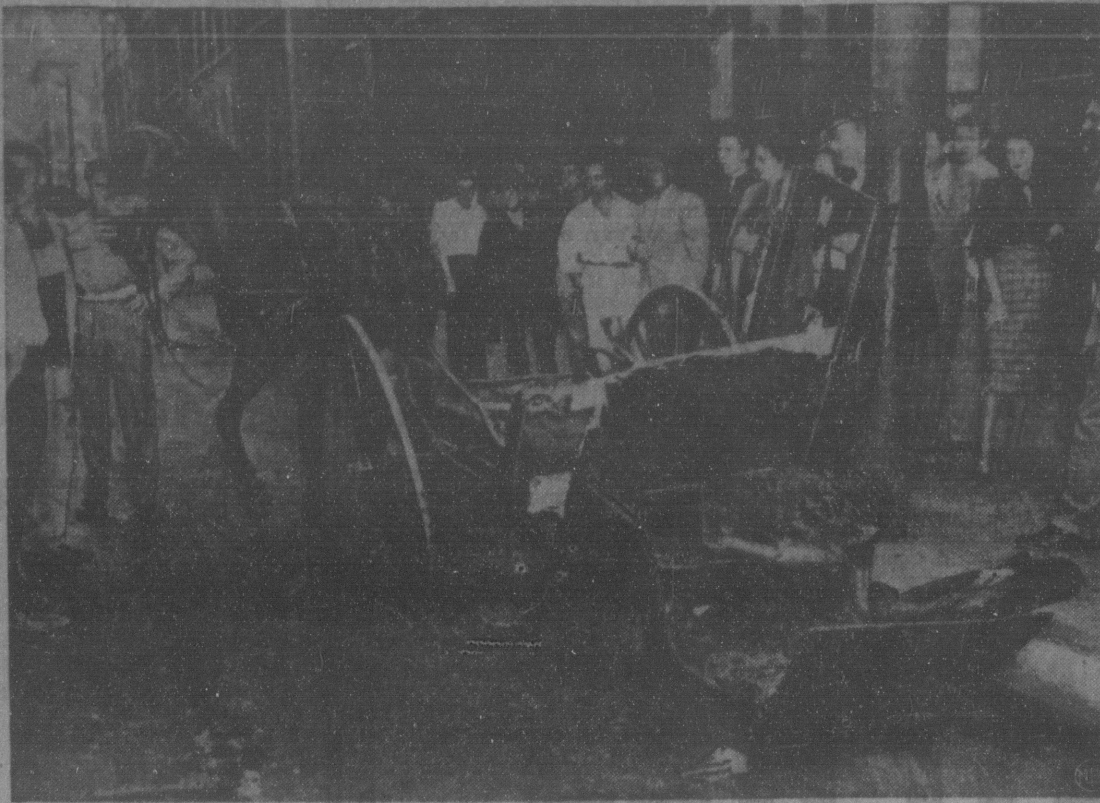

"He certainly changed a lot," Mrs. McMaster said. "He's 67 now—he wears glasses and his hair is getting very thin."

Stewart said he would be a better correspondent from now on.

Busman's Holiday?

MILWAUKEE—A man who catches the bus to work every morning enjoyed a two-week vacation. He got up earlier than usual every morning and sat on the porch watching the other folks hurry downtown.

End of the No-Horse Shay

This sight-seeing buggy in Chicago took its last ride when the horse broke loose and sent it crashing into a parked car. The horse was stopped by a motorcycle policeman, who, in true wild mid-western style, leaped off his bike and grabbed the animal's harness.

Has Fun Playing Like

He's Real Fire Chief

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22—Some local character had fun playing fire chief last night and got away with it.

First, he swiped Second Assistant Fire Chief Elmer Cain's bright red auto. Then he tore around town announcing phony positions to central headquarters over the chief's radio.

At one point, he announced he had donned the chief's hat. Then he had the gall to cut loose with a loud blast on the siren.

Distraught cops finally found the car—empty.

Dayton Chest Over Top

COLUMBUS, Oct. 22—Two Ohio Community Chest drives ended last night, one over the top and one short.

The Dayton drive netted $1,215,300, or two percent above its goal of $1,195,000.

The Zanesville and Muskingum county campaign, after being extended a week, produced $8,158 less than its goal of $102,973.

DAMASCUS

Mrs. T. L. Stacey entertained Frank Steer and son Melvin and daughters Wilda and Lois of Leetonia and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Steer at dinner Tuesday evening. The event honored her nephew, Kenneth Steer in observance of his 14th birthday. Gifts were presented the honoree and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. J. Baker and son Freddie and daughter Doris of Guilford called on Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baker, Tuesday.

A guest speaker will be heard and officers will be elected when members of the Damascus Magazine club meet Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. M. Steer. Roll call responses will be "Current Events."

By REILMAN MORIN

(For DeWitt MacKenzie)

THE REAL KEY to the Russian riddle lies, I believe, in the fact that the Soviet government forever leads a double life.

Simultaneously, it is pursuing not one but two foreign policies. One is a "plain" policy, concerned with security, trade and all the interests that go to form the foreign policy of any nation. The other is the foreign policy of the Communist party. These are not always either parallel or compatible. The objectives are by no means the same. Sometimes, they seem to oppose each other.

At such times, gorgeous contradictions are succeeded by stunning paradoxes. The Russian line twists and turns and denies itself. It changes direction like a frightened dog on a football field.

Here is an example: From the appearance of Hitler to the outbreak of war the Soviets were fiercely opposed to Germany. The two governments fulminated against each other, for years in such terms as "Fascist Beasts," "Bolshevik Mongolian Savages" and similar pleasantnesses. The Nazis hunted down and ruthlessly destroyed their Communist enemies; the Reds, by deed and word, were openly hostile to everything German.

YET, IN 1939, Russia suddenly signed a non-aggression treaty with Germany. Magically, overnight, the two governments became "friendly." Do you remember the amazing circumlocutions and mental acrobatics performed by the American Communist leaders in trying to explain this to the shocked and bewildered brethren?

What they couldn't say, by way of explanation, was this: THAT, AT that moment, Communist party policy, with its line and its objectives, had been forced to give way to the "plain" policy, which had, as its objective, military security.

The Kremlin say a war coming. Sooner or later, the German hordes would be turned on Russia. The Red army wasn't ready, then. So, even though Nazi Germany represented the deepest and worst and blackest type of capitalist state—the very type the Communist has sworn to destroy—party policy, for the time being, had to be abandoned. It was a case of plain necessity.

Then, in 1940, Germany attacked Russia, as the Kremlin had foreseen. Russia suddenly found herself "allied" with some other filthy capitalists. But was she? Not according to Eugene Varga, a Soviet political expert. He wrote:

"The fact that the Soviet union and highly developed capitalist states were in the same camp against Fascist aggression meant that the struggle of the two systems was relaxed and temporarily stopped. It did not mean, of course, that the struggle was ended."

In the same way, Russia allegedly disbanded the Comintern. The Comintern was the directing agency of Communist parties in other countries. Its objective, working through those parties, was to destroy every capitalist state. So, presumably, during the time of collaboration, Moscow called off the dogs.

BUT IN FACT, as we now know, the Comintern simply put on a new, but not a cleaner shirt, and became the "Cominform."

Because of the venomous hatred of the orthodox Communist for the capitalist nations, Lenin consistently frowned on any form of international cooperation. He was afraid of being out-voted in the democratic processes.

Therefore, he called the League of Nations a "Devil's Kitchen." He referred to the system of counting votes as "kiddie."

Yes, in 1922, the Soviet government began participating in international conferences. In 1945, it joined the United Nations.

Why? Again, because of plain necessity in terms of ordinary security.

In 1922, the Reds were only five years in their revolution. They dreaded an assault by the combined capitalist nations. So, temporarily turning on the orthodox Communist line, they went into the League. For identical reasons, in 1945—because of being exhausted by the German occupation and the war in the east—they joined the United Nations.

As of today, it is the Communist party policy which shapes and directs Russian foreign policy. It also aids "plain" foreign policy by putting Communist-controlled governments in the satellite nations, thus erecting buffers between Russia and the West.

Soviet actions in Germany and Korea, and elsewhere in the world, however, are mainly dictated, not by considerations of trade or security, but by the original and unchanged objectives of the Communists.

But when the necessity again

How World Depends on U. S. Supplies

This chart, based on data in Secretary of Agriculture Sawyer's quarterly report on exports under decontrol, shows how hungry the world's broad trade areas are for U. S. goods. Before the war, the U. S. supplied about 15 per cent of the value of goods imported by other nations. Total U. S. exports in 1947 hit an all-time high of about $15,200,000,000, and goods went out in the first half of 1948 at the rate of $13,000,000,000. Prewar average was less than $3,000,000,000.

Bright Children Are Found Unusually Sturdy

CHICAGO—The extremely bright child is not usually a physical misfit. In fact, he's more likely to be superior in size, strength, muscular control and general health to other children in his age group, says Paul Witty, professor of education at Northwestern university. Writing for the National Parent-Teacher, Witty says the idea that extremely bright children are "physically weak, unsocial, bespectacled misfits has no foundation whatsoever." Witty cites a study which traced the careers of 1,000 "very bright individuals" from childhood into adulthood. That and other less extensive studies support the view that unusually intelligent children are usually physically superior also, he said. Witty contends that one of the greatest shortcomings of today's school systems is their failure to recognize and conserve unusual ability and talent.

Paul Brown to Leave Pros, Return to College

Will Take Job Worthy Of His Talents; Money Not Main Interest, Is Report

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22 — One of the richest pro football jobs in the country — coaching the Cleveland Browns of the All-America conference — will be the object of a wide open race for 1941.

Although Paul E. Brown, present coach and general manager of the loop champions hasn't confirmed it, it's a cinch he'll leave the professional game and return to collegiate football.

A source close to Brown as to his own vest made that plain yesterday when he said:

"If Paul is offered a worthwhile intercollegiate coaching job, he will make a move after this season. And that 'worthwhile' offer need not be in terms of money. He'll take the first job that's worthy of his talents."

Just who might take over the reins of the Browns, with whom "Precision Paul" has won two straight championships and has rolled up seven straight victories this season, is as much a question as to where Brown will next direct a team.

The continual bickering between the All-America conference and the National Football league, plus their inability to get together on the draft and a post-season series, were given as the big reasons Brown wants to get out of the play-for-pay game.

Brown has a five-year contract, with two years to go, calling for at least $25,000 annually, plus a share of the gate, but the spokesman said:

"Paul never reckoned on getting into a football war, and has no stomach for such things. He's not a muscle man with the idea of running someone out of business."

"Brown is a football coach, probably the best technician in the country. He is proud of his teams, but he doesn't like this eternal conflict between his league and the National."

"Both conferences are feeling the effects of the war. The fight is hurting everyone, not only because of the increased player salaries due to the bidding for talent, but because of the decreased public interest due to the lack of an overall champion."

"Both sides are getting sick of the war, naturally. The Browns are out-drawing everyone, but aren't doing too well financially. Look at the Chicago Bears. Why, George Halas has $50,000 tied up in 7-quarterbacks alone. No one can pay that much for talent for one position and come out anywhere near even."

Coach Brown, when asked about the report that he would desert the professionals and return to the collegiate field, answered:

"Mr. McBride has been awfully good to me here." He referred to Arthur (Mickey) McBride, owner of the Browns.

Brown's coaching career has been fantastic, including his years as the "miracle man" at Massillon High school. In his last six seasons there his clubs won 58, lost one and tied one and averaged about 18,000 per game in attendance. He moved on to Ohio State in 1941, winning six, losing one and tying one in his first year, and grabbing the national championship in 1942 when he won nine and lost one. In 1943, with a squad of freshmen and 4-F players he won three and dropped six.

Later he coached the Great Lakes naval team, winding up with a record of 32-7 win over a favored Notre Dame team, and then cast his lot with the professionals.

The "source" scooped reports that Brown had been contacted by qualified representatives of California schools a few weeks ago, relative to a coaching job there.

"Paul's reaction to some advances by unauthorized alumni of those schools was that he couldn't discuss the matter unless contacted by someone in authority. But I have a hunch Paul would be interested in a job out there, for I know he wants to get back into the intercollegiate field."

LAY PLANS FOR FOOTBALL TRIP

Boosters Leave Decision To Coach Ben Barrett On Team's Excursion

The Salem Boosters club, meeting at the Memorial building Thursday, laid plans for a tentative football trip to Cleveland for the Salem grid squad, depending on the outcome of the balance of the games this season.

Coach Ben Barrett said he felt it was a fine gesture by the club to offer a trip, but thought the club should wait until the season was further along before making definite plans. He indicated that the trip could be arranged after the close of the season.

The club voted $250 for use for the trip if Barrett decides it is worthwhile, and President George Baillie assigned Fred Cope and Don Beattie to make arrangements.

The club voted $25 to the Community Fund campaign.

Films of the Wellsville-Salem game and "Football Thrills of 1947" were shown following the regular meeting.

Coaches Barrett, Cy Lipe, Bud Dean, Ward Zeller and Cross Country Coach Troy Penner spoke briefly.

ROUNDUP OF OHIO COLLEGIATE NOTES

ALLIANCE—It will be Homecoming Day for Mount Union college Saturday with the invading Akron university Zippers providing the opposition. In 34 previous meetings Mount Union has won 18, the Zippers 15, with one contest ending in a tie.

KENT—Kent State, one of the five undefeated -ending football teams in Ohio, prepared an aerial attack today for their invasion of Cleveland's League park Saturday. Western Reserve university, the Kent State's opposition, showed a weak pass defense in losing to Ohio University last Saturday. Hence the emphasis on passing.

WILBERFORCE — Wilberforce university added, fresh from a 7-0 victory over Graceland college, worked out in final arrangements today before taking a trip to Washington and a game with Tennessee State Saturday night. The game in Washington capital probably will determine the mid-western team conference college title.

GRANVILLE—Undefeated Denison, boasting a 40-point per game average, hopes to finish in victory No. 13 in a new season tonight at Ohio State. Homecoming Saturday. The big game will be held in Columbus, Ohio, with Denison without a game today.

GRANVILLE—Coach Bob Whitaker said his undefeated team, Green, played through a stiff schedule at homecoming today in a game with Denison.

Notre Dame Wins, But It Isn't Helping Scheduling

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK — Frank Leahy of Notre Dame authors a piece in a national magazine titled, "We're Not Ashamed of Winning."

The Master might well have added, "But it doesn't help our schedule."

"We're not ashamed of winning," is precisely what Rev. John J. Cavannah, O.S.C., president of the University of Notre Dame, said when in 1946 Army announced it was walking out after the edition of '47.

"Not is the issue's lot improved by criticizing his conqueror."

Well, the only question under which Leahy and Notre Dame have been held is that they are altogether too good for the average college team.

A number of coaches have said they would tackle the Irish only in their final engagement.

"When a team plays their earlier," they contend, "it takes such a pounding that it loses for next Saturday."

A fine Purdue squad furnished fresh evidence along this line this fall, dropping two more games after making a grand stand against South Bend.

Leahy seeks to explain the Celtic unbeaten streak of 23 over a three-year stretch with "possibly the finest coaching victory he has ever achieved to enter into the Notre Dame, which has the victory habit."

He shut it out, may you hear the same old story as Notre Dame men lose one of their better series after another.

Army contended the game at Yankee Stadium has grown too big. Then it turned right around and booked Michigan and Penn State.

"Seven Big Nine games and Notre Dame are simply too much for us," explains Northwestern Athletic Director Ted Fawcett.

"Until this autumn we had been to the Pacific coast exactly once in 10 years, and that is true of the east, too."

"About of those areas must up on seeing the team."

"So we're playing Navy in Baltimore in 1940, and bringing the Midshipmen to Evanston for our centennial in '51."

"We're going to play a far western and an eastern school at least every two years, so our players can see something of the country while in college."

Meanwhile, unless something is done about the situation, Notre Dame will be all dressed up with practically no place to go.

BIERMAN SEEKING 'GIMMICK' TO USE AGAINST MICHIGAN

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22 — Wanted: One "Gimmick." Contact Bernie Bierman, head football coach, University of Minnesota.

"That's an advertisement you never will see but it goes well describes Bierman's mental attitude. He has been seeking a 'Gimmick' or trick with which to key up his football team for the game this coming Saturday with Michigan."

All week long he has been trying various combinations of players. He has worked the team on pass defense, fundamentals, and even one play—virtually everything in the book.

The reason for Bierman's hunt for a new inspirational angle is the Gophers' spotty, inconsistent performance so far.

Minnesota raced to a 16 to 0 lead over Northwestern only to let the Wildcats come back to take a 16 to 14 tie against Illinois. The Gophers played better football at the first big stadium. Then they came to life, scored one touchdown and were on their way to another when the game ended, giving them a narrow 9-0 decision.

For the Gophers Saturday's game will be at least an opportunity to get into the new show game at years and Michigan, on last year's Big Nine championship, is inclined to repeat this season, and a victory to Minnesota would put the Gophers on the top of the candidate's list.

Backing up Bierman in his belief the team will have to play the best football of the year to have a chance against Michigan is George Sweeney, one of the two coaches. Sweeney has coached Michigan and has a deep respect for the Wolverines.

There's a rough, tough, no-holds-barred football team in the back of Sweeney's mind. He says players will win on Saturday night, but there's a lot of work to be done.

Sweeney, the Gophers will be in good luck.

Miami To Meet Ohio U. Kent Holds Best Mark For Defensive Work

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Editor

COLUMBUS — Ohio's collegiate football teams, all a bit wary after last weekend's series of startling upsets, take to the highways and byways for this week's play.

Twenty-six contests are on the slate, but only 11 are victory buck-ets. Eight teams will take to the road for frolics in Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Washington, D. C., while invaders will come in from Wisconsin, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia and New York for seven contests.

Ohio State's clash with Wisconsin headlines the show, the Big Nine event being looked in the Buck stadium. Ohio projected itself into the Western conference title fight Saturday with a resounding 17-0 win over Indiana, first loop loss for the Hoosiers.

Other top-flight events send Miami's Redskins to Ohio U., and Cincinnati to Butler for a pair of All-America conference games. Cincy and Miami are scheduled with Western Michigan for the league lead. The Michigan team and Western Reserve, other league members, take on non-loop foes. Xavier's Musketeers meet Western Michigan, while Kent State's undefeated Golden Flashes tangle with Reserve which dropped a 21-7 game to Ohio U. Saturday.

Indiana, Kent State, Washington, Bowling Green and Wilkesboro posed the pack of 22 teams today with four straight conquests, after last week's games which saw Wilmington and Ohio Northern defeated for the first time, and Baldwin Wallace tied.

Probably the most startling result were Capital's 14-0 win over the Gophers who had won three and tied one, but the Capital county squad rolled for 18 points in the first period and won going away with halfback and Char coming twice on long runs.

Denison, swamping Western 31 to 0 for its 14th straight, boosted its point total to 160—the state's best. On the other end is Starkville, with no games for three games. Starkville with only one touchdown against it, is the best of the defensive units, while Capital has permitted all opposing teams.

Protections against are expected at Bowling Green as the Hoosiers put their undefeated record on the block against Baldwin Wallace, a team certain to be around when the season ends. Starkville is John Carroll for its first black mark. Another top-notch is expected at Marietta as the Hoosiers' undefeated record is put on the block.

Back in the West, on last year's Big Nine championship, is inclined to repeat this season, and a victory to Minnesota would put the Gophers on the top of the candidate's list.

Backing up Bierman in his belief the team will have to play the best football of the year to have a chance against Michigan is George Sweeney, one of the two coaches. Sweeney has coached Michigan and has a deep respect for the Wolverines.

There's a rough, tough, no-holds-barred football team in the back of Sweeney's mind. He says players will win on Saturday night, but there's a lot of work to be done.

Sweeney, the Gophers will be in good luck.

Second Guessing

OH, MY ACHING BACK DEPT.

Mrs. Harry Stuhldreher, wife of Wisconsin's head coach, has set a lot of grid tongues wagging this week with her article "Football Fans Aren't Human" appearing in a national magazine.

The sad, and late, written before the season opened this year, is somewhat underlined about now by the playful acts of Wisconsin followers in holding a large "Goodbye, Harry" banner above the stands last Saturday as Yale triumphed the Hoosiers 17-0.

We have a large spot in our heart for Mrs. Stuhldreher and her plight. Football coach's wives all over — even in towns like Salem — go through practically the same things year in and year out.

However, the coaches and their wives aren't alone in their suffering — if it really is that. Writers, too, have their woes along the same lines. However, the scribes not only catch it when the team is losing, they get it in the most win, lost or draw.

To illustrate, take a look at this collection of quickly noted parodies:

In predicting, you hit those wrong —
If you say they'll win, and they do: "Everybody knew it all the time."
If you say they'll lose and they lose: "You're a dope and you made the team overconfident."
If you say they'll lose and they win: "That shows

USE NEW METHODS TO LOCATE STORMS

Miami Weather Man Has System That Works: Scientists Doubt It

By WILBUR JENNINGS

MIAMI, Fla. — Meteorologists now look high in the air to map the probable path of a hurricane.

A simple rule developed by Chief Forecaster Grady Norton of the Miami Weather bureau which involves the use of radar, permits storm forecasting to be done on a 24-hour basis.

As late as 1945, six-hour notices of an approaching hurricane were considered "perfect" warning.

Through long study of tropical air, Norton has found that the disturbances are carried along by the main air stream, sometimes far above the earth.

His rule, which is so simple that some meteorologists still refuse to believe it, has worked every time it has been applied.

Longer than 24-hour forecasts might be made, but Norton says that is simple time, and there's always a chance of some freak of nature upsetting the apple cart.

Use Balloon

The rule calls for an exploration of the upper air with a pilot balloon until the "steering" level is found, "then we can tell which way the storm is heading and the path it will follow."

When the recent October storm was in the Florida straits, Norton said the storm would "continue to head north for awhile and then turn to a northeasterly direction."

It did just that.

Radar plays a vital role. Before the war, pilot balloons used for probing the winds were good only as far as they could be seen with the aid of a telescope. Once they passed through a cloudbank, the meteorologist was through.

Today, a small metallic box attached to the bottom of the balloon records on radar just about as high as the balloon will go before bursting.

The "steering" level of a hurricane is found, Norton says, when the balloon reaches the top of the storm and is in normal air again.

The upper air stream, the forecaster says, had a broad flowing pattern like a river. Once the balloon reaches the stream, it goes along with it.

Some hurricanes extend 60,000 feet into the air but normally they find their level at about 10,000 feet, Norton calls the latter a "pretty good steering level."

The balloon also tells how fast the storm is traveling. Norton says it has been figured that it moves approximately 75 per cent of the velocity of the air stream.

When Norton started hurricane forecasting back in 1935, warnings went up "when you could see the whites of their eyes."

Right now, Norton would like to see more radar-equipped weather stations. There are ones at Miami, Havana, Swan Island, San Juan, Tampa and Bermuda.

A balloon did more than its duty recently. It discovered the storm which crossed Cuba and South Florida early in October.

The first indication that there might be a disturbance in the Caribbean came when a weather station reported the wind in the upper levels was blowing in the wrong direction. Subsequently, a hurricane hunting plan and a ship substantiated it.

Embezzlers Just Ordinary People, Statistics Show

CHICAGO — Embezzlers are just ordinary people.

A study of 1,001 embezzling cases shows that the persons who take funds from their employers are no different from several million other Americans.

The statistics, gathered by the United States Guaranty Co., paint the following picture of the average embezzler:

He's 35 years old, married, and has two children. He has a good upbringing, a high school education, and is a good mixer.

He's earning $175 a month in a position of trust. He has held for 5 1/2 years. His employer regards him favorably. In short, the report says, he is a regular fellow with a better-than-average business future.

Then why does he embezzle? Gambling, drinking, women, accumulation of debts, and bad business management are the main reasons. In some of the cases studied, employees took money to "save for a rainy day," for revenge, or to get capital to open their own businesses.

"If any one thing applies to the greatest number of these people," the report says, "it is that in some manner of other they lived beyond their means, and had they been more careful, in this respect, they would scarcely have become embezzlers."

Little more than two per cent of the embezzlers whose cases were studied absconded with the funds. In 90 cases out of 100, the study says, the employee who dips into the till is "temporarily borrowing" and would indignantly deny that he is a thief.

In nearly 90 per cent of the cases, the thief worked alone. The percentage of women who had partners, however, was nearly double that of men.

Even though employers lose $200,000,000 each year through employee dishonesty, says the study, "by choice and by inclination the majority of employees are honest."

The study makes no attempt to tell employees how to pick out those employees who will turn dishonest. "It is impossible to predict the future actions of any man," the report said.

Truckers Urging Crossing Signals

Truckers are adding their weight to the campaign to secure adequate crossing signals at the Erie railroad-State Route 14 crossing in Washingtonville.

More than 50 drivers recently signed a petition that was sent to the Ohio Public Utilities commission. In the petition they reaffirmed the need for flashers or other signals at the crossing.

Robert Bertolotto, special policeman in Washingtonville, said that some of the truck drivers that go through Washingtonville every week are surprised to learn that this stretch of track is used. A freight train goes through Washingtonville twice each day.
